DCI WEEKLY REPORT
PUBLIC AFFAIRS OFFICEMedia Relations

PAO coordinated the March 29 press release by the SSCI on the DCI's testimony regarding new initiatives within the CIA and the Intelligence Community to strengthen security at overseas missions and improve CI in the CIA. Other major issues concerned a demonstration against the CIA recruiter at the University of Texas and the officer-in-residence program. Unclassified background briefings were arranged for Rowland Evans (Evans and Novak) on the Middle East, and for Washington Post Chairman Katharine Graham, Editorial Page editor Meg Greenfield, et al in preparation for their pre-summit visit to the Soviet Union.

Executive Appearances and Invitations

The DDCI was voted one of the top three speakers by 290 outstanding high school students at the week-long National Leaders' Conference. The students represented 46 states and 2 territories and were chosen for high academic marks and leadership ability. The opportunity to question the DDCI was enjoyed by the students and his candid replies received "rave" reviews. During the week a total of 25 cabinet members, members of Congress, and media representatives spoke at this conference.

Public Relations Unit

25X1  participated as a panel discussant at the International Studies Association (ISA). There were many academics at the ISA including one from the New York Institute of Technology who is interested in setting up a program on Intelligence at his school. Seventeen invitations went out for Dean's Day--out of those we expect to have at least 15 attend.
